This conference is an opportunity for tenants, trade unionists, councillors and other supporters of council housing to sharpen the arguments, share experience and feed into the government's Review of Council Housing Finance. We need to unite the council housing family bringing together those from authorities directly retaining their homes as well as ALMOs and provide support for people facing 'stock options appraisals' and transfer ballots. We all need to stop the robbery from tenants' rents and capital receipts. We have a common interest to secure a new financial settlement for council housing that enables every authority to improve existing homes and estates, maintain improvements for years to come and build a new generation of first class council homes for future generations. Get your tenants organisation, union, local authority or political group to organise a broad based delegation from your area to take part.

- Opposing privatisation and attempts to means test and stigmatise council housing as housing of last resort
- Winning the 'Fourth Option' to secure first class council housing with secure tenancies, low rents and an accountable landlord as a tenure of choice

Defend Council Housing National Conference

UNITING THE COUNCIL HOUSING FAMILY

This conference comes at a critical time for council housing. Ministers have promised their review will "ensure that we have a sustainable, long term system for financing council housing" and "consider evidence about the need to spend on management, maintenance and repairs". Yet some councils are still proposing to conduct expensive 'stock options appraisals', some ALMOs are discussing privatisation and authorities are even balloting tenants on transfer before the review's outcome is known.

The conference, organised by tenants for tenants and other supporters of council housing, will be an important opportunity to hear from a wide range of contributors – including those at the heart of negotiations with Ministers. There will also be time to talk to tenants from other areas and share lessons and experience.

Councils always say they want tenants to be well informed and regularly fund delegations to attend conferences and events. Ask your authority to sponsor a delegation to attend this conference. Invite trade unions and councillors to attend too. Contact local unions for help if your council refuses.

Stop privatisation

Nearly 2.5 million tenants have rejected privatisation. We value our secure tenancies, lower rents and charges and an elected and more accountable landlord. We're angry that tenants in many authorities (those directly managed by the council and, as we predicted, in some ALMOs) face an ongoing threat of privatisation.

We're demanding a moratorium on any further privatisation or expensive and wasteful 'stock options appraisals' until the outcome of the government's review is known and evaluated. Government and local authorities must stop bullying and blackmailing tenants. We demand they respect tenants' choice and ensure the review delivers the secure future for council housing as promised.

Improve existing homes

It's a scandal that government robs money from tenants rents (£1.7 billion this year) – and then tells us there's not enough money to modernise and improve all our homes. Evidence shows that government has been massively underfunding allowances to councils for the management, maintenance, repair and improvement of council housing. It's been treating council housing like a 'cash cow'.

Ministers must now ring-fence at national level all the income from rents and receipts and provide a 'level playing field' on gap funding and debt write-off. This would fund an increase in allowances to 'level of need' to enable all authorities to modernise our homes and estates and maintain improvements in future years.

Start building new

The crisis in the private housing market underlines the case for massive investment in a new generation of first class council housing. There's strong demand: the Local Government Association predicts the 1.67 million households on council housing waiting lists will rise to 2 million households (5 million people) by 2010.

A big council house building programme providing well built and designed family homes with secure tenancies, low rents and an accountable landlord is the only practical way to provide the decent, affordable, secure and accountable homes Britain needs. It would enable councils to open up allocation policies once again to butchers and bakers, nurses and teachers, so that council housing can again become a tenure of choice providing mixed and sustainable communities.

WORKSHOPS:

1. Stop privatisation

A moratorium, dealing with 'stock options appraisals', 'fair and balanced' debate, the case against privatisation and the post-transfer experience

2. Improve & maintain existing council homes

How housing finance works, the options, risks and benefits facing the government's 'Review of Council Housing Finance' and what we want

3. Start building new

Investment in a new generation of first class council housing makes sense, defining 'affordability', mixed communities and 'tenure of choice'

4. Future for ALMOs

Options for tenants: revert back, stay the same or privatisation via stock transfer or morphing into public/private partnerships

5. Tenants movement and organising today

History of tenants organisation and organising effectively today to defend our secure tenancies, low rents and hold our landlords to account.

6. Unite against the Nazis

What we can do to stop the Nazis undermining tenants' common interests and exploiting housing need to spread their politics of hate and division.

"Ministers need to demonstrate their commitment to council housing now! Whilst we're waiting for the outcome of the Review of Council Housing Finance government must provide an interim solution for embattled authorities who are unable to improve their homes and maintain these improvements. This should include:

1. Additional resources for those authorities who are unable to meet the basic Decent Homes standard (selling off existing council homes or land is not acceptable).
2. Ensuring, as a minimum, the gap between tenants rents and allowances does not increase during the review. This would provide an immediate increase of £216 million for allowances in the 2009/10 determination.
3. An immediate moratorium on further transfer ballots and a halt to the expensive 'stock options appraisal' process until the review's outcome is known."
